LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY is a two-campus Seventh-day Adventist coeducational institution located in inland southern California and is part of the Seventh-day Adventist system of higher education.

On the La Sierra campus, at the west edge of Riverside, curriculums in applied and liberal arts and sciences, business and management, pre-professional programs for the health-related professions, and programs in professional education in fulfillment of requirements for teaching credentials are offered by the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, and the School of Business and Management. On the Loma Linda campus, in the San Bernardino-Redlands area, professional curriculums are offered by the Schools of Allied Health Professions, Dentistry, Health, Medicine, and Nursing. Graduate programs of the departments of the schools are offered from both campuses through the Graduate School.

Accredited by the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, and the North American Division Commission on Accreditation of the Board of Regents of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Loma Linda University is a member of the American Council on Education and the Association of American Colleges. The professional curriculums of the University are approved by their respective professional organizations.

Curriculums are offered leading to the Associate in Arts, Associate in Science, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Business Administration, Bachelor of Fine Arts, Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Social Work, Master of Arts, Master of Business Administration, Master of Health Administration, Master of Public Health, Master of Science, Master of Science in Public Health, Specialist in Education, Doctor of Dental Surgery, Doctor of Education, Doctor of Health Science, Doctor of Medicine, Doctor of Philosophy, and Doctor of Public Health.

The core of the combined faculties consists of approximately 743 full-time teachers. Part-time and voluntary teachers, especially clinicians in the professional curriculums, bring the total past 1,885. Men and women from as many as 100 nations are represented in the annual enrollment of approximately 4,400 students.

NONDISCRIMINATION POLICY

The University is established by the Seventh-day Adventist church as an integral part of its teaching ministry.

The University is committed to equal education and employment opportunities for men and women of all races and does not discriminate on the basis of handicap, sex, race, color, or national origin in its educational and admissions policies, financial affairs, employment programs, student life and services, or any University-administered program.

To this end, the University is in compliance with Titles VI and VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as amended, and substantial compliance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 (45 CFR 86 et seq.) and Sections 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The University also complies with the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 and Section 402 of the Vietnam Era Veterans Adjustment Act of 1974 and does not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment on the basis of age or because they are disabled veterans or veterans of the Vietnam era. In addition, the University administers student programs without discrimination on the basis of age, except in those programs where age is a bona fide academic qualification for admission in accordance with the provisions of the Age Discrimination Act of 1975.

The University reserves constitutional and statutory rights as a religious institution and employer to give preference to Seventh-day Adventists in admissions and employment. The University believes that Title IX regulations are subject to constitutional guarantees against unreasonable entanglement with or infringements on the religious teachings and practices of the Seventh-day Adventist church. The University expects students and employees to uphold biblical principles of morality and deportment as interpreted by the Seventh-day Adventist church. The University claims exemptions from the provisions of Title IX set forth in CFR Sections 86.21, 86.31, 86.40, and 86.57(b) insofar as they conflict with church teachings and practices of morality, deportment, and appearance.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION

The University routinely monitors its educational and employment practices regarding women, minorities, and the handicapped to ensure compliance with the law and University policy. The University's affirmative action policy is to provide equal access to admissions, educational programs and activities, financial aid, student services, and employment.

In compliance with Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, a grievance procedure has been established to process student complaints alleging violation of these regulations or of the University's policy of non-discrimination based on sex or handicap. Inquiries concerning Title IX may be directed to the dean of students. Employment-related discrimination complaints, including those filed by student employees, are processed in conformity with the provisions outlined in existing staff personnel policies. Complaints related to discrimination in academic areas are reviewed in conformity with the procedures established by the academic administration.

LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY

HISTORY

Loma Linda University has grown out of the institution founded at Loma Linda, California, by the Seventh-day Adventist church in 1905. The original schools — Nursing and Medicine — have been joined by Allied Health Professions, Dentistry, and Health on the Loma Linda campus. In 1967 the former La Sierra College joined the University, adding the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Education. In 1986 the School of Business and Management was established. The University now comprises two campuses — one at Loma Linda and one in Riverside (La Sierra), California. The Division of Religion and the Graduate School are administered on both campuses.

The University, operated by the Seventh-day Adventist church, is committed to the vision of its founders and sustained by its close association with the church.

PHILOSOPHY

As implied by its motto, To Make Man Whole, the University affirms these tenets as central to its view of education:

God is the creator and sustainer of the universe.

Mankind's fullest development entails a growing understanding of the individual in relation to both God and society.

The quest for truth and professional expertise, in an environment permeated by religious values, benefits the individual and society and advances the ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

MISSION

Loma Linda University's fundamental purpose as an institution of higher education is to provide — through the faculty, staff, administration, and curricula — an environment for learning that emphasizes individual commitment to Christ, personal integrity, intellectual development, and generous service to mankind and the church.

Particular attention is given to selecting curricula that educate students for Christian service. Whether or not the discipline is directly expressed in denominational employment, the educational philosophy and methodology are molded by Seventh-day Adventist concerns and values.

The University's College of Arts and Sciences provides a significant liberal arts foundation intended to broaden and enrich the student, whatever the career choice. Professional and postbaccalaureate programs concentrate University resources in religion, education, social services, health and biomedical sciences, and other fields having a history of high priority among Seventh-day Adventists.

Although many Seventh-day Adventist students at Loma Linda University come from the western United States and most from North America, the University recognizes the larger constituency of the Adventist church throughout the world. Other students who esteem the Christian values of the University provide an additional constituency.

Because Loma Linda University is part of a system of Seventh-day Adventist institutions of higher education, it often serves these institutions through professional collaboration as well as academic agreements. Moreover, the University responds continually to the church's needs for skilled professionals, scholars, and administrators.

Loma Linda University's commitment to excellence in teaching is undergirded by scholarly activity, with growing emphasis on research in areas consistent with its educational goals. The University also provides extensive continuing professional education both locally and on distant campuses in North America and abroad.

In expressing its mission the University retains the practices of weekly chapel services on both campuses and required study in religion for all students because these activities not only develop and reinforce Christian community, but also add richness and balance to the academic, spiritual, and social life of the student. Furthermore, the University expects its citizens to live in harmony with the Seventh-day Adventist lifestyle.

under the direction of the Board of Trustees, embraces the concept of shared participation in governance among administration, faculty, and students as the process by which decisions are made, implemented, and evaluated.

fosters the ideal of academic freedom, seeking to protect the faculty member from pressures both internal and external which would hinder the pursuit of knowledge and truth. At the same time it assumes that faculty members will act responsibly within the context of the philosophy and mission of the University.

affirms and practices nondiscrimination with regard to age, color, gender, ethnic origin, or handicap. It does, however, offer Adventist students preference in admission; and faculty and staff are recruited with specific attention to their membership in the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Loma Linda University readily accepts its role as a resourceful contributor to its constituencies, higher education, and the local community.

ADOPTED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES
August 26, 1985

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION has its origin in the first teacher education courses that were offered in 1923 on what is now the La Sierra campus (at Riverside) of Loma Linda University. The institution was then called La Sierra Academy and Normal School. In 1925, when the education department was organized, the emphasis was on elementary teacher education.

Two years later the school became Southern California Junior College, and a two-year professional curriculum was offered to meet the credential needs of church school teachers. A building was erected to serve as a parochial school for the community and a demonstration school for the education department. This building burned and was replaced in 1947 by a laboratory school northeast of the campus.

The name of the institution was changed to La Sierra College in 1939. That year the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools gave accreditation for fifteen grades, and full senior college accreditation followed in 1946.

The College was united with Loma Linda University in 1967 and became the College of Arts and Sciences. The education department, continuing a year as a division of the College, was reorganized in 1968 as the School of Education, with four departments currently designated:

Department of Administration and Leadership

Department of Curriculum and Instruction

Department of Educational Foundations and Research

Department of Educational Psychology and Counseling

Goals The goals of the School of Education are:

1. To provide the student opportunities to gain the knowledge, skills, and attitudes required for success in the chosen area of study in education.
2. To help inservice and prospective educational personnel to build a sound philosophy of education in Christian, historical, and sociological context.
3. To enable the student to implement the basic principles of education through the use of tested psychological theory and practice in the educative process.
4. To motivate investigative curiosity and a desire to participate in the advancement of knowledge, particularly in the art and science of education.
5. To help the student develop knowledge and skill in educational research so that a contribution may be made to the advancement of education.
6. To engender and nurture in the student the desire to use professional skills in selfless service to mankind, regardless of race or creed or geographical location.
7. To provide qualified and dedicated educational personnel for the schools.

Administration The dean is the chief administrative officer of the School. The associate dean and the department chairmen are directly responsible to the dean and collaborate with him and the faculty to develop instructional programs in the four departments. Directors of the various services of the School are also responsible to the dean. He presides at meetings of the Executive Committee, committees on admissions and graduate programs, and at general meetings of the faculty. He also chairs the Executive Committee for Extended Campus Programs. The associate dean's primary responsibilities are in the areas of credential and off-campus programs. He is the chief credentials adviser and the director of Extended Campus Programs.

THE EXTENDED CAMPUS concept was a dream that came to fruition in 1978 when, in answer to the "Macedonian" call, Loma Linda University's School of Education began offering graduate programs on the Union and Southern College (formerly Southern Missionary College) campuses. Another campus, Canadian Union College, was added in 1983. These unique programs leading to the Master of Arts degree in elementary education are programmed during the summer quarters expressly for the purpose of offering further training and enrichment to Seventh-day Adventist elementary school teachers. Within these programs are certain core courses that are applicable to all graduate programs in the School of Education, Loma Linda University. Those who wish to pursue a graduate degree on the La Sierra campus may elect to take these core courses on an extended campus. The programs are also structured to assist in fulfilling requirements for teaching credentials issued by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists Department of Education. Credentialing responsibility will be assumed by the respective union conference offices of education.

The program took on a more international flavor in 1986 when campuses were opened in Costa Rica and Australia. The program in Costa Rica, located on the campus of Universidad Adventista de Centro America in Alejuela, serves the six nations of Central America and offers the Master of Arts degree in administration and leadership. The program in Australia, located on the campus of Avondale College in Cooranbong, offers the Master of Arts degree in administration and leadership and also the Master of Arts degree in curriculum and instruction.

Courses are offered in the summer session in both areas during December and January.

For further information on any of the above programs, please write to the Associate Dean, School of Education, Loma Linda University, Riverside, CA 92515; or to the extended campus coordinator of the extended campus in your area:
