University Campus Fellowship plans mission emphasis week

Loma Linda University students will focus their attention on world missions during the week of May 6-11 to emphasize the University's commitment to world service.

The Week of Missions Emphasis, inaugurated two years ago by the University Campus Fellowship, is being coordinated by Carol J. Jesse, SM'68, and other members of the University Campus Fellowship committee.

Included in the week's schedule are daily noon-hour meetings in the University Church Fellowship Hall and evening meetings in the Campus Chapel. Meals will be served at the noon meetings for a nominal charge.

Speakers for the week will deal with problems that a prospective missionary may encounter in foreign service, such as cultural, political, and sociological differences.

Concluding the Week of Missions Emphasis will be a weekend retreat at Pine Springs Ranch. All Loma Linda campus students are invited to attend the mountain retreat. Student missionaries from Pacific Union College, Angwin, and the University's La Sierra campus will also be in attendance.

Alumni association board of directors elected for 1968-69

New board of directors has been announced for the School of Dentistry Alumni Association for the year 1968-69, according to Alden B. Chase, DDS, assistant professor of orthodontics and incoming president of the Alumni Association.

Included among the board of directors are Leif K. Bakland, '63; Archie D. Buchanan, '61; John A. Butler, '59; Lee F. Crane, '62; Raleigh R. Cum-mings, '66; Vernon S. Eddlemon, '60.

Medical alumni conclave will open March 29

Over 2,000 physicians, medical students, and others from across the nation are expected to attend the postgraduate convention of California's largest medical group March 29 to April 4.

The 36th annual Alumni Postgraduate Convention, sponsored by the Alumni Association and the faculty of Loma Linda University School of Medicine, will be held in the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, and on the Loma Linda campus of the University.

Refresher courses scheduled to begin Sunday morning, March 31, will be held on the Loma Linda campus in the Graduate School building, hospital amphitheaters, and in the opthalmology department in the hospital.

Convention highlights

A highlight of the convention will be the annual alumni homecoming, held for the first time on a unified campus. Scheduled for 2 p.m. in the Dale Gentry Gymnasium, the program will include discussions of the curriculums, clinical teaching materials, research in progress, and proposals for the immediate future.

Special guided tours of University Hospital will be conducted during the day for alumni and their families.

The convention will open with religious services Friday night and Saturday, followed by the refresher courses on Sunday and Monday.

The scientific assembly scheduled for the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, April 2-4, will feature the latest reports on medical progress by national authorities in combination with discussions, clinical films, and closed-circuit television demonstrations of medical and surgical problems and techniques.

Speakers

Included among the speakers are Carroll L. Witten, MD, in-structor of medicine, University of Louisville, Louisville, Ken-tucky; Marshall J. Orloff, MD, professor and chairman of the department of surgery, University of California at San Diego; Peter H. Forsham, MD, professor of medicine, University of California School of Medicine at San Francisco.

C. Henry Kempe, MD, professor and chairman of the department of pediatrics, University of Colorado, Boulder; Robert V. Shearer, MD, professor and chairman of the ophthalmology section, department of surgery at Loma Linda University.

Robert E. Litman, MD, pro-fessor of psychiatry, University of Southern California, Los Angeles; and Helen F. Gofman, MD, director of the child study unit, University of California San Francisco medical center.

Additional feature

An additional feature of the convention will be the institution of the first annual Percy T. Magan lectureship. The lectureship, "The Pathology and Treatment of Edema," will be presented by Donald W. Seldin, MD, professor and chair-man of the department of internal medicine, University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas.

The annual convention banquet is set for April 3 at the Biltmore Hotel. Guest speaker will be Jerry L. Pettis, United States Congressman for the 33rd congressional district.

Big job on Xerox? Make appointment

Candidates for degrees who wish to Xerox copies of their thesis must make an appointment for the use of the Xerox machine, according to Elva D. Owens, library bibliographer and Xerox key operator.

Appointments, which must be made at least two days prior to using the copier, can be arranged with Mrs. Owens or Betty S. Davis at the library.

A charge of seven cents per page is made for the use of the machine. This includes special durable paper supplied by the library. Use of the Xerox is on a cash basis only.

Further information may be obtained at the library circulation desk.

Annual nutrition homecoming scheduled for April 5-7

Richard C. Nies, PhD, a clinical psychologist from Glendale, will be one of the speakers at the nutrition and dietetics alumni association homecoming scheduled for the weekend of April 5-7.

Dr. Nies, who received his PhD in experimental psychology from the University of California at Los Angeles, will speak on "Our Emotional speak on Hang-up."

Other scheduled events include lectures by Roslyn B. Alfin-Slater, PhD, associate professor of nutrition at UCLA, and Rose Budd, '63, director of dietary service at Glendale Adventist Hospital in Glendale. Mervyn G. Hardinge, MD, PhD, dean of the School of Public

Compete in Florida

Health, will present a progress report on the school.

Also featured will be U. D. Register, PhD, professor of nutrition, who will tell of his recent travels to Afghanistan. He will also present a report on the progress and future of the department of nutrition.

C. Joan Coggin, MD, assistant professor of medicine, will speak on the recent Loma Linda University heart team's trip to Greece at the banquet Sun-day, April 7. The class of 1943 will be honored at the banquet.

Further information about the weekend may be obtained by writing the Alumni Relations Office, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, California 92354.

A brief dedication service for Loma Linda Uni-versity Hospital is planned for March 31 at 3:30 p.m. near the northeast corner of the new building.

The program will feature statements by Ralph F. Waddell, SM'36, secretary of the medical de-partment of the General Conference, and Con-gressman Jerry L. Pettis.

The climax of the dedication will be the unveiling of the name stone which is engraved "Loma Linda University Hospital, 1968, "To Make Man Whole."

The dedicatory service will be held in concurrence with the School of Medicino Alumni Postgraduate Convention since many alumni will be on the campus.

Table clinic winners announced

Winners of the student table clinic competition at the eighth annual Loma Linda University School of Dentistry Alumni -Student Convention were announced March 7 at an Awards Banquet held on the La Sierra campus of the University. The winners among 14 competing scientific exhibits, each a clinical or research principle developed by the design-ers, were James W. Petrick, Jr., and Peter M. Couperus, both junior dental students. The subject of their exhibit is "Radioisotope Display of Salivary Gland Parenchuma."

First place

Taking first place among the dental hygiene students were Marjorie E. Hablutzel, Linda J. Hare, Jane A. Way, and Yvette P. Dawes, juniors, for "How Much Washing Does a Mouthwash Wash?"

Mr. Petrick and Mr. Couperus and their first-place exhibit will represent Loma Linda University in the national table clinic competition at the October meeting of the American Dental Association in Miami, Florida. Loma Linda students have taken the first place award for the past three years and have placed among the top three for the last six years in the national competition.

Other winners

Other winners of the table clinics included James A. Dierlinger and James D. Ellenberger, sophomore dental students, for their exhibit "DNA Synthesis in Herpes Simplex Virus," second place; and senior student, Gary G. Gregory, for

"Axi-pan," third place. Placing second among competing dental hygiene students were Betty L. Zendner and Marilyn C. Redfern, seniors, for "Root Planing — Do or Don't?"

Alumni and students attending the banquet heard Fred W. Andrews, DP, of Redlands speak on "This Thing Called Love." "Romantic Reflections" were provided by Maurita Phillips, soprano soloist in the Roger Wagner Chorale. She sang selections from "Sound of Music" and "Fiddler on the Roof."

Incoming officers for the Alumni Association were introduced by Jack R. Booker, DDS, of Colton, past president of the association. Among the new officers are Alden B. Chase, DDS, of Colton, president; and Hugh C. Love, DDS, of Loma Linda, vice president for Cen-tury Club.

Alumnus of the year

Douglas A. Bixel, DDS, of Tokyo, Japan, was announced Alumnus of the Year for his recent achievement of being the first foreigner to successfully complete the Japanese dental boards in the national language. Dr. Bixel, who was graduated from the School of Dentistry in 1963, operates a dental clinic at the Tokyo Sanitarium-Hospital.

The high cost of learning

By Robert L. Cone

Vice president for financial affairs

The cost of education and the survival of private colleges and universities has now become of national concern. More than anything else, perhaps, the explosive rise during the post-war years in the total cost of the nation's educational activities has driven home the realization that education, whatever else it may be, is unmistakably big business.

Collective public and non-public outlays on formal education were running about $50 billion a year in 1966a figure which includes expenditures for elementary and secondary and higher education. At this rate education absorbs a larger share of national product than any other single activity except national defense.

For the year 1966 the cost of higher education alone has been estimated to be about $12.4 billion and it is estimated that by 1975 the cost of higher education could be as high as $30 billion per year. It is the feeling that at least one-half of this amount will have to come from government sources if higher education is to survive on an adequate level.

It is a well accepted fact that it is not possible for the student to pay the whole cost of his education in any phase of a college or university training. This is particularly true in the areas of professional and graduate education.

Loma Linda University is no exception; and the Seventh-day Adventist church subsidizes the University heavily to help with the education of its students. In a recent study of the education costs in the professional schools of the University the following information was reflected as to the amount subsidized by the church toward each student's education for the school year ending June 30, 1967.

School of Medicine	$4,620.00
School of Dentistry	1,106.00
Graduate School	6,847.00
School of Nursing	843.00
School of Health Related Professions	1,939.00
Dietetics Interns	2,357.00

Statistics were not available for the College of Arts and Sciences, but the estimated amount of church appropriation for this college area is $200 per student per year.

Expresses alarm

Dear Editor:

Many good people are becoming alarmed and distressed over the published letters, mimeographed sheets, and magazines that attack our denominational leaders, our policies, and our ideals.

I, too, regret these criticisms that divide rather than draw us together, but I am comforted by this priceless proverb that my very wise mother taught to us children; "The little dog barked and barked at the moon, but the moon shone on just the same."

Adventist author schedules workshop

Seventh-day Adventist prolessional writer and lecturer George W. Target is scheduled to speak at a writing workshop Sunday, March 31.

The two workshop sessions, scheduled for 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., are sponsored by the Christian Writers Association.

Topics to be discussed include "Magazine and Feature Article Writing" and "Religious Book Writing."

Mr. Target has written nine fictional works, 20 television plays, eight radio plays, and many feature and documentary programs. He has also taught English literature at Colorado State University and has worked with the London Publishing House.

Admission to each lecture is $1. Both lectures will be held in room 2-B of the Graduate School.

Canadian reunion slated for April 4

The annual reunion of the "Friends of Canada Club" will be held Thursday, April 4, at Clifton's Cafeteria in West Covina

All Canadians, former workers, or friends of Canada are invited.

Dinner will be served cafeteria style for the group from 7:30 to 8:10 p.m.

Listen magazine enters cartoon buying market

Listen magazine is interested in purchasing cartoons in the subject areas of alcohol, tobacco, drugs, or inspirational phases of better living, according to Francis A. Soper, editor of the magazine.

Cartoons submitted should be drawn in ink and must be original in both drawing and cap-tion. A rough sketch and query may be submitted first.

Queries or cartoons should be sent to Listen, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington D.C. 20012.

In fact, it was these which seem to have provided the initial springboard for the correspondence. The two en-couraged each other, both seeming to be full of infirmities of the flesh, she with her operations, sinus trouble, and dental repairs, he with his rheumatism, osteoporosis, and anemia. Worse, she had serious family problems, and although once financially independent, suffered loss and even privation. Thus she was ever in his prayers day and night and received assurance of this; but though at first because of English law he could not send her money when she most needed it, eventually he was able to arrange a lifetime stipend for her through his American publishers.

Word of caution

About one third of the way along in their correspondence Lewis cautioned Mary: "You have, you know, recently stepped up the pace of the correspondence. I can't play at that tempo!" By this time he was writing to her sometimes twice or three times a month. Then would come long pauses while he was vacationing in Donegal, Ireland, or changing university assignments, or caring for a sick brother with whom he lived and who was his secretary. Once he wrote: "I'm sorry my letters are so short compared with yours, but I'm afraid this is an irremovable difference between the sexes - women love letter writing and men loathe

Dear Editor:

Is it really true that certain Adventists would like us to question the reality of the creation story? I am referring to the editorial in the Los Angeles Times by John Dart, (January 17, 1968) which just reached me out here.

Do they question the story of the giving of the Ten Commandments at Sinai? Does the fourth commandment contain misinformation? ("For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is.") Paul says that Christ was the One leading in the wilderness (I Cor. 10:4).

John says He was at the creation (John 1:1-3). Paul says Christ by His righteousness makes many righteous, where Adam by his sin had made many sinners (Romans 5:12-19). Are all these questionable?

Are Paul, John, Peter, and the other Bible writers composing one huge work of fiction? Where do we draw the line?

B. Lewis, PhD, has authored an article appearing in the latest issue of Andrews University Seminary Studies. The title of the study is "Ignatius and the Lord's Day."

The article follows a companion study by Fritz Guy, assistant professor of religion, now on leave for graduate study at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Lewis' research paper discusses the disputed passage in one of the epistles of Ignatius, which is usually translated to include "living according to the Lord's day but should, he says, be presented as "living according to the Lord's life."

This contention refutes the supporters of an early acceptance of Sunday worship by the Christian church, who claim that Ignatius' use of "Lord's day" soon after John used the expression in Revelation 1:10 proves that John was speaking of Sunday as a day of worship.

Woman's dental auxiliary 'catches' sex education

"Sex education is not taught — it is caught," Charles E. Wittschiebe, DD, told a meet ing of the School of Dentistry Woman's Auxiliary during the annual School of Dentistry Alumni - Student Convention held in Loma Linda March 7-9.

"If a husband and wife have a happy, warm relationship, children detect the tone of their relationship and a healthy attitude is incorporated into the children's ideas toward sex," Dr. Wittschiebe told the dentists' wives.

The Andrews University professor of pastoral care also said that we don't always allow ourselves the right to express primitive emotions. Young people need to realize that in marriage there will be fear, jealousy, and hurt, but that if these are expressed and the "irritant drained off" soon enough, these minor tensions will not build up to major proportions, Dr. Wittschiebe advised.

Series of lectures

This Thursday afternoon meeting was one in a series of lectures given by Dr. Wittschiebe, who lives in Berrien Springs, Michigan, to the Auxiliary on such topics as "Woman and Wife... Who Is She?" and "How to be Happy When Married." He was also available for private counseling.

Other activities for the ladies included a golf tournament at the Calimesa Country Club and a personal improvement class directed by Mrs. Michael M. Sayre-Smith, a lecturer on good grooming. Mrs. Dorothea Mathisen entertained the chapter representatives at a brunch held in her Loma Linda home Thursday morning.

"Pornography"

Dear Editor:

We note on page three of the February 14 University SCOPE the pictures from the physical education department and would compliment the variety of activities available.

We also would compare the evident precedent of co-educational physical education classes. From a prestige University the weight of this precedent throughout our school system is frightening.

This may not be a school policy, but from the black and white "performance" on page three it is evidently the way it works out.

In most of our schools any student of the opposite gender standing on the side lines watching is told to be on his way. Even our local public school system hasn't tried this and we don't live in the "Bible Belt" either.

Our question is, has Loma Linda University "thrown in the sponge" on the General Conference recommended denominational standards and gone the way of least resistances?

Sometimes it seems we are allowing the world to "brainwash" us right down the sewer drain. Jesus said very plainly, "But I say unto you, that whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart." Matthew 5:28.

The "Thou shalt not" of Holy Scripture is a fence demonstrating God's love and concern for our protection. Let's not "wash out" but "measure up." We sent this letter to another minister who has served the church in the field of education for many years for evaluation before mailing. We quote his answer: "Send the letter ... I think that scantilly clad women in pictures (or in reality) are really pornographic." Harry E. Darby Pastor, Lakes District Detroit Lakes, Minnesota Continued on page 6

General Conference placement

"It has been a great privilege for me to visit the lovely Kerala Hospital and see first-hand the development of the physical plant. For this I shall be your debtor," quoting from a report from Harley E. Rice, associate secretary of the General Conference medical department, after he evaluated this fine hospital plant in south India.

"... The building is well planned ... the workmanship is of high quality. The total complement of beds when the four blocks are complete will be approximately 64 beds, 12 of these being for obstetrical patients.

"... This hospital potentially may be one of the finer mission hospitals in our chain of medical institutions. Completed, and landscaped, it can easily become a show place for the church. When one adds to this lovely physical plant, scientific skill and Christian compassion, the ingredients are present for a very effective medical ministry.

"It is distressing to learn that it has not been possible to appoint a physician to this post of service, and with no one even under appointment, the possible time of offering medical service is very uncertain. It seems a tragedy to have the physical plant so nearly ready to serve, to lack the essential staff, for it must ever be remembered that a hospital is principally people. The physical plant is very important, but the people are more important and the work of the hospital is effective or ineffective according to the skill, competency, dedication, motivation, diplomacy, and personality of the people who serve." For more than a year this call has been repeated, still without response.

"It has been said that, after Cicero the great orator, finished an oration, the people crowded around him spellbound and cried: 'How well you spoke.' But when the Grecian leader, Demosthenes made a speech, the aroused crowds shouted: 'Let us march.' We are often aware that the church has its Ciceros, but it does have men like Demosthenes also, who are prepared to throw out the challenge in strong, inspiring language, warning the hearts of their hearers, without mincing words, and without compromise."

Perhaps you, before you settle back into your routine of service for your immediate fellowmen, should let the arousing clarion call make its demands of your total commitment to mankind in areas abroad. So while Kerala, or the other forty locations, wait for a response, you could be making plans to fit into the great gospel commission to "go." There are calls for two dentist, two dietitians, two medical technologists, eight nurses, one physical therapist, and 26 physicians; (12 general practitioners, one anesthesiologist, one gynecologist - obstetrician, one internist, one pathologist, one pediatritian, one radiologist, and eight surgeons). This makes 41 hospitals or locations waiting for medical personnel. Surely you will never be sorry for the years you spend in medical service in another culture, on another continent.

Oil paintings by Theodore R. Smith are on display through March 22 at the Loma Linda University College of Arts and Science Art Gallery.

"Prob - Art" is Mr. Smith's term for his hard-edge oil paintings, which display a controlled but sophisticated blend of geometric constructivism, probability, and 20th century art technique, according to Herschel Hughes, associate professor of art.

Awards presented to Mr. Smith include three first place awards for sculpture at Pacific Union College, Angwin, California. The University of California at Riverside Art Gallery exhibited his art work in 1964.

Smith designed the set for "Fresco of Sound," produced at Pacific Union College, and has also designed book and magazine covers.

Employed as a mathematician at the Naval Weapons Center, Corona Laboratories, Mr. Smith received a bachelor of science degree, majoring in physics from Pacific Union College and a master of arts degree, majoring in mathematics from University of California, Redlands in 1965.

The La Sierra campus gallery, located on Campus Drive, is open to the public Monday through Thursday from 1 to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The gallery is closed Friday and Saturday.

with footlights and voices.

Your editorial of February 14, 1968 projects a philosophy which is certainly open to question and appears to be based on rather filmsy facts and logic.

I have yet to hear any responsible layman or official of Seventh-day Adventist the church voice the opinion that supplying beautifully coached and well applauded athletes to the Olympics or the "American Athlete Industry" is among the "goals" of Adventist Christian education.

Neither have I ever observed more than a minute fraction of the students of the schools in the communities where I have practiced who show any significant evidence of being physically fit as a result of the California school physical education programs.

Certainly the athletic indus-try of the public and quasichurch related colleges of the world offer no worthwhile pattern of physical education to follow! What contribution to "education" will competitive basketball games between La Sierra and Loma Linda make?

The spirit of the partisan spectators, at such frays as I have observed contribute nothing to Christian character development. Entertaining, yes; education, no! Do we not have a surfeit of spectator sports now without adding more under a hypocritical cloak of "Christian education?'

I would recommend to you the three volume index to the writings of Ellen G. White and specifically the references under games, section 2: baseball, cricket, and football.

If you can read the sense of 95 percent of the references there listed and equate this with the philosophy of your editorial, then I should be happy to see the Loma Linda-La Sierra program move on from its present state to ticket selling, pom-pom girls, full-time coaches, and joining the Pacific Coast League. You are only three short steps from it now.

If you cannot rationalize the counsel of the EGW books, including pages 210 and 211 of Education, then I believe you are duty bound to put strict controls on the program on which you are apparently embarking or else eliminate the intramural program, or if neither of these are done, then be honest enough to say you are rejecting the counsel of the Ellen G. White books.

No one has ever risen to a position of leadership by following in the footsteps of the masses, half a century behind!

away as soon as they heard I was married."

The letters confirm again Lewis' great disdain for the "tissue of muddles," which was his term for the press, snobbery, advertising, psychoanalysis, crowds (he didn't go to Queen Elizabeth's coronation), and machines ("The more noise, heat, and smell a machine produces the more power is being wasted!").

He dreaded Easter letters (a dark spot, instead of a bright one), and the Christmas season, which to him was mainly, "hard, gruelling work — write, write, write," until he declared that if there were less good will going around there would be more peace on earth, and would Mary please to avoid holiday periods in writing to him.

As university lecturer and tu-schools of nursing, the president pointed out that the ANA in itself cannot close hospital schools as it has been accused of doing.

"Only state boards of nursing or the hospital itself can do this," Miss Elliott emphasized. "But I commend the ANA house of delegates for its forthright stand in this area."

Nurses from the Inland Empire joined Loma Linda University School of Nursing alumni in attending both the evening lectureship and the reception for the president earlier in the evening.

Mary C. Monteith, emeritus associate professor of nursing, was present for the lectureship named in her honor.

tor at Magdalene College, Oxford, Lewis' busy schedule can lend some consolation to those of us who sometimes work at teaching six days a week: "I am at present just so busy that I don't know if I'm on my head or my heels." Immediately after the Easter letters, he began examining students, reading an average of 20 scripts a day (including Sundays) for six weeks, followed by "viva voce examinations" which took eight hours a day. "I shall become human again at about the end of September." When he transferred to Magdalene College, Cambridge, as professor and was advancing toward the age of 60, he was still "frantically busy,'

Dinner benefits Fiji Islanders

A benefit sale and dinner to raise funds for the "Fiji Agriculture Industrial Training Headquarters" will be held next Sunday in Linda Hall.

Last year Loma Linda agriculturist Jacob R. Mittleider visited with three Fiji Islanders who studied his revolutionary growing techniques with him_in New Guinea.

Under Mr. Mittleider's instruction they and six others from other South Pacific Islands cultivated "devil land" which had been rejected by the natives. They produced enough food from three and one-half acres to feed 175 persons.

Mr. Mittleider, who founded the industrial training headquarters, accepted from Loma Linda University an assignment to tour 24 underdeveloped countries and submit a report on ways of making food available to these countries.

Food for the benefit dinner will be provided by the Loma Linda Dorcas Society. The dinner is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Donations of cash and food are welcome.

Neurosurgeon dies after brief illness

Funeral services for Kenneth H. Abbott, MD, clinical professor of neurosurgery, were conducted earlier this month at the Glendale Adventist Church, Glendale.

Dr. Abbott, who lived in Glendale, died March 3 in Glendale Adventist Hospital after a brief illness.

For nearly 10 years he had maintained a private practice in Los Angeles. In addition to his University appointment, he was on the faculty of the school of medicine at University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Dr. Abbott was chief of neurosurgery at White Memorial Medical Center, Los Angeles.

and complained that although he didn't get more tired than when he was younger, it took much longer to get "un-tired afterwards."

When Mary wrote of her over-busy schedule he replied that God may not wish one to do all sorts of work he needn't do, that "what feels like zeal may be only figits."

Such bits of wisdom on all kinds of subjects occur frequently throughout the Lewis easy-to-read letters. He occassionally admonished the lady to "weep a good honest howl," to avoid letting "nasty people become an obsession to haunt our minds," to avoid normal prayers when ill and over-tired, to learn to depend solely on God in order to avoid depending on things, to accept graciously help others may proffer, to pray for God's mercy rather than His justice on one's friends, ene-mies, and on oneself. Therein is courage for all and support for various opinions and obser-

Money: Lewis was "panic-y" about money and frightened of poverty more than "anything else except large spiders and the tops of cliffs." And he was continually wondering how God wanted us to live as the lilies of the field when he didn't give us the same lack of nerves and imagination as they enjoy! absolutely sincere. No fool, either." Mary, who was a Roman Catholic, must have alluded to the church further, for in his next letter he became extremely interested in what she said about the "VII Day Adventists. If they have so much charity there must be something very right about them."

Death: His wife of five years died of cancer on July 13, 1960. "I can't describe the apparent unreality of my life since then." He suggested to Mary three things that one can do about death: desire it, fear it, or ignore it. And the third "is surely the most uneasy and precarious of all." He finally gently ap-proaches mention of their own decline by saying that an old man and an old woman have not much more to do here. Later he signed one of his last letters to Mary: "Yours (and like you a tired traveler, near the journey's end), Jack . . . You must expect my letters to be very few and very short. More a wave of the hand."

Then on November 22, 1963, the day our President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, Lewis died, having asked his secretary to tell Mrs.— he is much concerned for her and prays that courage may be hers now and henceforth.

People who have money generally are interested in keeping it. And that, in effect, is what our leasing service is all about. Any make and model of car is available to you on a one, two or three year lease with an absolute minimum amount of cash required. Result—your money is free to do other things: invest in stock, real estate or other ventures that put your money to work.

Leasing, however, is not for everyone. Neither are new cars. But if you're ready for a new car, investigate our service and discover if you're ready for leasing.

For details, phone or stop by our office.

Consumer science building opens on La Sierra campus

"It's like a beautiful dream come true." This is how Mary P. Byers, associate professor of consumer related sciences and head of the department, describes the newly constructed consumer related sciences building.

The home economics department, recently renamed the department of consumer related sciences, has been sharing the facilities in Ambs Hall with the department of industrial arts.

The 374,000 L-shaped building will contain cooking, experimental foods, animal observation, clothing, textile analysis, and child development observation laboratories.

A donation of freezing and refrigeration equipment valued at $5,000 was obtained by Paul S. Damazo, college food service director and an instructor in the department.

The clothing laboratory will be furnished with 13 new Berdina sewing machines plus five other machines from the old building. Each sewing unit will accommodate four students.

Other facilities include an 128capacity auditorium and a lounge where students may relax and visit. On the first floor of the two-story building will be four carpeted and completely furnished dining rooms which, when the room dividers are removed, will open up into a large banquet room.

The building has not yet been officially named. On its exterior, however, it will bear the designation, "Consumer Related Sciences." Future plans include the addition of a third floor to the building.

La Sierra campus clubs host school

Last month, the agriculture club and the horseback riding club were the hosts to 21 students from the California School for the Deaf at Riverside. The children ranged in age from six to 12.

While one group of 15 students and two teachers was enjoying a short ride on the school's horses under the direction of Daniel Skeoch, a member of the horseback riding club, the other group was taken on a hayride tour of the farm, including stops at the poultry ranch and creamery. The tour was under the direction of Lee Kaufholtz, president of the agriculture club. Service Corps arranged for the program and helped defray the costs of the refreshments served to the children.

LARGE NUMBERS of University friends and alumni toured the new La Sierra campus Consumer Related Sciences building last Sunday. The two-story building houses the former department of home economics. Attractively designed and furnished, the new building on Campus Drive became available to the department's teachers and students this month at a cost of $450,000.

Jan Worth Recommends...

The world grows smaller. Each year, thousands of Americans stream abroad to foreign countries, each bringing home a little more world understanding, a little more knowledge of the life and habits in other countries.

Knowing the clothing, the culture, and the food of other countries is surely one of the finest ways to promote understanding and friendship. We were reminded of this again and again during the recent Jan Worth Recipe Contest. We received many unusual and delicious recipes with a foreign flavor. Three of the prize winners are presented here. They are easy to prepare and offer a new taste treat for your family. We hope you enjoy them.

Sincerely,

an, U lorth
